Case No. 2:14-cr-00024-APG-NJK

ORDER TEMPORARILY STAYING CASE

On June 27, 2016, the Supreme Court granted certiorari in Beckles v. United States, Case Number 15-8544, to decide, in relevant part, whether the holding in Johnson v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2551 (2015) applies to the residual clause of the career offender guideline in United States Sentencing Guidelines (“U.S.S.G.”) § 4B1.2(a)(2), and if so, whether Johnson’s invalidation of the residual clause applies retroactively on collateral review. On November 28, 2016, the Supreme Court heard oral argument in Beckles and the case was submitted for review. Given this development and Beckles’s direct relevance to the pending motion in this case, I will stay all proceedings in this case pending the Supreme Court’s decision in Beckles.

18 A district court has the inherent power to stay cases to control its docket and promote the 19 efficient use of judicial resources. Landis v. N. Am. Co., 299 U.S. 248, 254-55 (1936); 20 Dependable Highway Exp., Inc. v. Navigators Ins. Co., 498 F.3d 1059, 1066 (9th Cir. 2007).
21 When determining whether to stay a case pending the resolution of another case, I must consider
22 (1) the possible damage that may result from a stay, (2) any “hardship or inequity” that a party 23 may suffer if required to go forward, (3) “and the orderly course of justice measured in terms of 24 the simplifying or complicating of issues, proof, and questions of law” that a stay will engender.
25 Lockyer v. Mirant Corp., 398 F.3d 1098, 1110 (9th Cir. 2005). I find that a Landis stay is 26 appropriate here.

1           The core of the defendant's argument is that (1) the Supreme Court's decision in Johnson
2 applies to the residual clause of the career offender guideline, (2) Johnson's invalidation of the 3 residual clause applies retroactively on collateral review, and (3) thus the defendant is entitled to
4 collateral relief pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. The Beckles decision is almost certain to determine
5 whether Johnson can provide collateral relief to defendants who are challenging their career
6 offender guidelines sentences. Therefore, the Supreme Court's decision in Beckles is likely to be 7 dispositive of this case, or at least dispositive of significant issues.

8           I have numerous cases in which defendants have filed § 2255 motions challenging their 9 career offender guidelines sentence and seeking collateral relief based on Johnson and its 10 progeny. Staying this case pending the Supreme Court's decision in Beckles will permit the 11 parties to present arguments and evidence in the context of complete and resolved precedent, and 12 it will allow me to evaluate the claims in light of this legal authority. Consequently, a stay
13 pending the decision in Beckles would simplify the proceedings and promote the efficient use of 14 the parties' and the court's limited resources.

15           Resolving the defendant's motion before the Supreme Court decides the issues presented
16 in Beckles could also impose a hardship on both parties. A stay will prevent unnecessary and 17 premature briefing on the issues before the parties have the benefit of the Supreme Court's legal 18 analysis and decision.

19           The only potential damage that may result from a stay is that the defendant and the 20 Government will have to wait longer for resolution of this case. But a delay would also result 21 from the new briefing that would very likely be needed after the Supreme Court issues its 22 decision in Beckles. So a stay pending the decision will not necessarily lengthen the life of this 23 case. Thus, any possible damage that a stay may cause is minimal.

24           The stay pending the decision will also not be indefinite. The length of this stay is tied to 25 the Supreme Court's issuance of its decision in Beckles, a case which has already been argued and 26 submitted to the Court and will be decided this term. Once the decision is issued, either party
27 may move to lift the stay.

28

1 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED this case is STAYED until the Supreme Court issues a
2 decision in Beckles v. United States, Case Number 15-8544. Once the decision issues, any party
3 may move to lift the stay.

4 DATED this 21st day of December, 2016.
